Tiara 5K Draws Record Number

By Jean Perry

The Mattapoisett Mother's Day tradition has grown steadily each year, with 2016 proving to be the biggest year yet for the annual Mattapoisett Women's Fund Tiara 5K, a fundraiser road race benefitting the Women's Fund of New Bedford.

Now in its tenth year, this year's Tiara 5K had already received 903 registrants – one more than the 902 last year – by the time online registration closed the Friday before the race, said Liz Ackerman, one of the event organizers.

Ackerman is an owner of the Oxford Creamery, which is the beginning point and finish line for the race that winds its way through Mattapoisett village and back again.

"This being the tenth year is so exciting," said Ackerman. She said this year, not only were there more participants, but there were more additions to the celebration, including goodies, cakes, cupcakes, face painting ... all carried out by about 100 local volunteers, ORR students, and volunteers of the Women's Fund.

"The Women's Fund is doing a lot with equal pay, women's education, and living wages," said Ackerman. "And they help women trying to get a job to sustain their families. And that's a huge thing."

Luckily, the forecasted rain held off until later in the day after the event was over.

Taylor Days-Merrill, 22, was first to cross the finish line at 16:57, followed by Selena Scott, 38, who finished first in the women's division at 20:26.

SLT Plans ADA Accessible Trail

By Marilou Newell

For a year now, the Sippican Lands Trust has been working with Peter Jensen of Creating Trail Experiences and Scott Hobson, biologist with Caputo and Wicks LTD, studying the 19.8-acre Osprey Marsh property in preparation for a boardwalk that will provide wheelchair accessibility to the walking trail.

On the Cover: The Women's Fund Tiara 5K is in its 10th year, and it's bigger than ever. With more participants than the previous years, the road race has become a Mother's Day tradition for Mattapoisett and runners from surrounding areas. Photo by Colin Veitch

Facebook Fun Friday

Each week we give you a chance to win great stuff on our Facebook page. Check us out at www.facebook.com/wanderer and keep an eye out for the Friday post each week.

Congratulations to:

Tammy Simmons

who won last week's Facebook Fun Friday!

This week we'll have a Gift Card to Dunkin' Donuts!

The property, gifted to the organization by the Howland family, is situated between Point Road and Planting Island Cove and contains forests, salt meadows, and marshlands. Howland asked that the open space be made accessible for the enjoyment of all people including those with mobility issues.

On May 5 during a meeting of the Sippican Lands Trust, Jensen and Hobson described the natural environment within the marshland parcel and the process of determining the viability of constructing a timber boardwalk – one that would give access from a trailhead off Point Road to the terminus looking out to Planting Island.

The entrance to the heavily vegetated land would consist of a trailhead, approximately 400 feet in length, of hard-packed sand and gravel sufficient for wheelchairs, carriages, and other wheeled devices. From there, the boardwalk would be another 1,400 feet meandering towards the cove.

Hobson described the natural wonders people would be able to observe and enjoy via the boardwalk. He painted a picture of rich lush mosses, trees and bushes that bear fruit, and a canopy that would provide shade. For animal lovers, he said species such as snakes, mammals, birds, and amphibians inhabit the recreational open space. Of birds alone, he named flycatchers, red wing black birds, herons, warblers, wild turkeys, and the star of the show – the osprey.

Jensen explained that creating a man-made structure in wetlands and associated bordering vegetated acreage was no small task. But he assured the residents that federal regulations stipulated how recreational boardwalks are to be constructed along with best practices he has honed over his years of experience in this specialized field of construction.

As for the impact the boardwalk would have within the Osprey Marsh, Jensen said it would definitely be a major feature in the marshland, but the benefit to people make the project worthy in terms of 'wellness.' The sustainable trail would provide "physical wellness, mental wellness, spiritual wellness, environmental wellness, and economic wellness," Jensen said.

Both Hobson and Jensen stressed that boardwalks of this type give people with physical challenges an opportunity to enjoy outdoor experiences – and through access comes inclusion.

of those in attendance, SLT President Chris Bryant responded, "We are going to need a lot of money." He said the project would cost upwards of $300,000. SLT Executive Director Robin Shields added that through fundraising and grants that sum was achievable. She said the SLT hoped to have the project completed sometime in 2018.

Bryant closed the presentation by cheerfully asking the audience for assistance, "Everybody talk this up in the community."

demonstrate their abilities versus their disabilities.

Jillian Zucco, the reigning Miss South Coast Massachusetts, organized the event as part of her commitment to raise money for the Children's Miracle Network, which actively supports improved health care for children. Boston Children's Hospital is one of hospitals that benefits from CMN fundraising.

Eileen Costa, the local "Miss" pageant facilitator explained, "In lieu of a registration fee, pageant participants need to raise $100 for the CMN." With Zucco's focus on volunteerism, organizing the Miss Inspirational program raised the necessary funds required for her next step on the pageant stage while providing a platform for others to shine. Zucco is looking forward to competing in the Miss Massachusetts pageant.

To assist with all moving parts an event of this size and scope mandates, Zucco enlisted the aid of high school students, personal care attendants, ORRHS staff, mothers, fathers, and even her boyfriend. The result was simply amazing.

Zucco also got assistance from the ORR School Committee. They waived the $600 fee for using the school after she explained the reason why she needed the space.

The participants were grouped by age categories, with each giving an introduction, demonstrating a talent, and finally dressing up in evening attire. Some of the ladies received assistance from Gifts to Give who provided dresses.

One of the most touching moments of the evening came when a young girl – through use of a voice simulated electronic device that makes verbalization possible – told the crowd, "Happy Mother's Day."

Tri-Town student Olivia Guillotte, 14, of Rochester, received Teen Miss Inspirational and The People's Choice recognition.

Tim Guillotte said, "Olivia thrives on attention." To that end, her parents have given Olivia opportunities to express herself and work with others such as being a member of Show Stoppers. He also said that Zucco, Guillotte's cousin, can be seen on YouTube performing with Olivia. "Jillian has spent a tremendous amount of time with Olivia," he said.

Also participating from the Tri-Town area was Grace Costa-Medeiros, 19, of Marion, whose talent for sewing was presented earlier in the evening. Grace's mother said of her daughter's experience in the ORR school system, "They made things happen for Grace, including her being here tonight."

Brenda Legendre, 8, Westport, received Little Miss Inspirational, and Amanda Thomas, 27, Bridgewater, was crowned Miss Inspirational for the 20 and over age group. All participants received a tiara.

The participants came from throughout eastern Massachusetts. Isabella Padilla's mother said they traveled from Cambridge. Padilla said, "There aren't many opportunities for girls like these to experience something like this - this is wonderful."

There is one word that sums up the Miss Inspirational event and that word is 'wow.' As Amanda Thomas stated before the curtain opened, "I'm going to wow you." The wow factor is indeed what she and the other ladies brought to center stage.

Zucco said in a post-event email that although a

Art Installation: A Different Kind of Face

By Marilou Newell

Mattapoisett artist Eric Frazer wasn't sure what direction in life to pursue. He tried several avenues but when he received a camera for his 21st birthday, it was instant karma.

Frazer graduated from the New England School of Photography in 2013. Since that time, he has been experimenting with the photographic art form.

His latest collection titled "Without a Face" demonstrates Frazer's breakthrough use of the camera to create blended pieces of portrait art. His models are a group of artists from various walks of life such as an oil painter, dancer, and rapper. By not showing their facial features or focusing on another part of their bodies that conveys their art form, Frazer has created something completely new.

Frazer admits to dealing with obsessive-compulsive disorder and in one piece titled "Surrounded," he uses that to help convey how the condition can dominate a person's life. He also shared in his introductory documentation that he hopes that image "helps raise awareness" and "provide understanding for those who face this and other mental health challenges."

It is Frazer's desire to use photography in new and emerging ways that excites him.

"I never want to repeat myself," said Frazer. He said that artists who have creative breakthroughs, creating something never seen, heard, or experienced before, would have their newer works compared to those seminal creations. That doesn't bother him.

Frazer's passion in this genre and interest in exploring the camera's boundaries and beyond will keep his work moving in directions yet to be found he believes.

An opening reception at the Mattapoisett Public Library was held for Frazer's art installation on May 7. The works will be on display for the next several weeks.

Wastewater Tops Town Meeting Concerns

Marion Annual Town Meeting

By Jean Perry

The town is in an excellent financial condition. This is how Marion Finance Committee Chairman Alan Minard started off his state of the town's finances address to voters during the May 9 Annual Town Meeting.

"It was a tougher year than usual," he said, with cuts made here and there in order to provide for mostly level-funded budgets throughout.

Town Meeting approved the $21,122,751 total operating budget with minimal discussion before moving onto other articles, most notably the ones that had to do with water and wastewater, which led to the repeated question by some: How will this affect the rates?

Article 3 started the conversation off with the Water Enterprise budget of $2,093,376, (up 4.16% from FY16), prompting residents to ask how that would affect the rates, to which Finance Director Judith Mooney replied saying there would be a 2.5% increase, same as last year. Article 4, the Sewer Enterprise Budget of $2,737,119, (up 1.35%), revealed a 3.5-8% increase, depending on usage.

"I'd like to say it's one of those easy blanket charges," said Mooney, "...it depends on the household, how many [people].... The high end would be the high-end users, the high tier."

But it was Article 12 that started the real debate.

The article, which ultimately passed the 2/3-vote requirement, appropriates $1.5 million towards the permitting, design, and modifications of the town's wastewater treatment plant to meet the new stricter requirements of the EPA's National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) permit.

"This is a situation where we have very little choice," said Minard, giving the Finance Committee's recommendation that the article be adopted. The amount will likely go down, he stated, "Which reflects a growing understanding of the factors involved."

Resident Barbara Sanderson asked, "Does it feel to anyone but me like people like us ... who have been told we have to be on [town] sewer ... are carrying an unfair burden for this work?"

The bond for the work would be paid from the Sewer Enterprise Fund, which is funded by the sewer ratepayers.

Selectman Jonathan Henry explained that a law dating back some years made paying for capital expenditures of systems such as wastewater to be funded by the consumers and not the taxpayers at large.

Further into discussion, resident Joseph Zora questioned the other contributing factors to the pollution in Aucoot Cove saying that if failed septic systems were to be blamed for such a significant part of it, where was the Board of Health? Zora argued against the data the EPA used when drafting the NPDES permit and commented that the town should have an experienced environmental attorney negotiating with the EPA, not the town administrator and selectmen.

"Only then should we allow the EPA to dictate to us what our compliance requirements are because as of today, they are using very bad, bad data," Zora said.

Planning Board member Jerry "Rico" Ferrari said the Master Plan Committee was looking into tentative data on water and sewer and would bring forth information at next year's town meeting, but he added, "Unfortunately, you have to go with this amount of money to be in compliance."

There was more talk about regionalization with Wareham and other communities near the Cape Cod Canal, which is currently in the beginning stages of feasibility exploration.

Ms. Sanderson questioned the appropriateness of having 2/3 of the town vote on whether 1/3 of the town, which is serviced by sewer, should pay the cost for this. Resident, and School Committee member, Christine Winters asked what the percentage of non-paying water/sewer-paying municipal buildings was compared to residential, to which neither selectmen nor Town Administrator Paul Dawson could answer.

Article 13, although it passed, faced some opposition as some, including Ferrari, who is up for re-election to the Planning Board, opposed appropriating $630,000 to replace the Mary's Pond drinking water well, with Ferrari and other advocating for regionalization over the local water source.

Resident Allan Ditchfield posed the question of tapping into Wareham, and Superintendent Rob Zora said the possibility was looked at several times over the years.

"We feel it's better to reactivate our well field and tie into that," Zora said, adding that perhaps five to ten years in the future it would be a more viable option.

Ferrari argued that the Master Plan Committee preferred to explore the tie-in with Wareham option, asking voters to hold off until next year for its recommendation.

"Give the team some time," said Ferrari. "We don't need it now. Six months, nine months ... it's not Zora said Wareham could wind up charging Marion whatever it wanted to service the town, and he preferred that Marion control its own resources.

"We own it," said Zora. "We own it now. We just got to fix it. And it's a good water source."

The voters agreed with Zora and the article passed.

Article 14 to appropriate $92,500, down from the $120,000 originally stated on the warrant, to develop and implement a Capacity Management Operations and Maintenance (CMOM) program mandated by the EPA to manage and maintain storm and wastewater collection systems garnered some debate as well, but took considerably less time to pass than the previous articles. Article 16, similar to number 14, appropriating $150,000 towards an Asset Management Program, another component of the EPA's requirements, passed as well.

The only other article that raised some contention was Article 22 to appropriate $171,473 – Marion's share of the total $603,000 – to fund ORR's five-year capital expenditure plan.

There was some debate over the difference between the article's request for a Proposition 2½ debt exclusion rather than a Proposition 2½ override. Dawson and Minard explained that the exclusion would raise the tax levy above 2.5% for up to ten years, while an override

Donoghue Criticizes ORR Budget; TM Buys Land

Mattapoissett Annual Town Meeting

By Marilou Newell

Before the voters of Mattapoissett could get to the 28 warrant articles, Town Moderator John Eklund invited Finance Committee Chairman Pat Donoghue to make comments.

After thanking the Town's department heads for their careful use of budgets and "watching the pennies," she then launched into her "disappointment" at the ORR budget process and "at the way the budget went."

For several minutes, Donoghue expounded upon skyrocketing health care costs and the necessity for the school district to make "serious cuts" while continuing to "eat up reserves to fund operating expenses."

"They are at risk," she said, "if unusual circumstances arise."

Donoghue also said that the difference between what the town has to pay when students leave the school system to attend vocational schools versus what the town gets when school choice students come into the system puts a burden on the budget. She noted that the town

ROLAND COTE
TREE WARDEN
TUESDAY MAY 17th

I would appreciate your VOTE on Tuesday, May 17th to be able to continue the progress being made these past 9 years as your Tree Warden for the Town of Mattapoisett. I am available 24/7 for emergency calls, calls from citizens, power companies, etc.

I also oversee the two historic cemeteries, Barlow and Hammond. Recently, along with my helpers, we have built a new fence around the Barlow Cemetery.

It was an honor to receive the TREE CITY USA Award for the first time in 2008 and we have received it consecutively the last 7 years, working alongside the Mattapoisett Tree Committee to accomplish these goals.

pays upwards of $20,000 for students to attend school outside the district, while the district only receives $5,000 when students opt in.

On the subject of new teachers, Donoghue said that a social worker and guidance counselor could not be funded, although their services were much needed for the growing problems students are manifesting. She said this placed an undue burden on the counselors presently at the school, taking them away from assisting students who are trying to make serious choices about their future.

Finally, Donoghue said that rising OPEB obligations, which stand at $20 million, were not being funded at all.

"This leads me to think we are not doing all that we should.... [I'm not] completely comfortable with Old Rochester." She ended her comments by adding, "The teachers have not taken a reduction."

These comments prompted ORR School Committee member Cynthia Johnson to call out "hold" during the reading of Article 2, General Operating Budget.

When invited to speak, Johnson took the podium at the front of the auditorium to respond to all that Donoghue had said.

"I'm feeling overwhelmed by Pat's comments about the school budget," Johnson began. "We work hard to be careful about it...."

Johnson said the committee had set up three accounts to begin addressing the OPEB problem and another for emergency planning and have put together a five-year plan.

Johnson also defended the school choice program saying, "You still need to have a building and teachers," calling it value added, as well as enriching to the students.

Regarding Donoghue's comments, Johnson responded, "The comments this evening have been a great disappointment."

Before the voters could move on, Town Administrator Mike Gagne asked to speak. He said that after six budget cycles, this year's planning was "a good process with candid conversations." He said a good plan had been developed but that "Rome wasn't built in a day," and congratulated the committee for pulling together a capital plan and a five-year plan.

"I would agree with Cindy," he concluded, "It's not perfect, but better than past years."

Selectman Paul Silva, the town's representative on the ORR budget committee said, "Mattapoissett supported the budget with the additional art teacher, social worker, and guidance counselor ... the other two towns voted 'nay'."

Article 2, the $24,696,873 general operating budget, was then passed.

There was little comment and no controversy as the voters then swiftly approved Articles 3 through 21, but they hit a speed bump when it came to Article 22 - Park Street Acquisition Using Community Preservation

Robert Saunders and Doug Schneider felt it was an unnecessary burden for the taxpayers with its $500,000 price tag, although the cost would be paid for through funding by the Community Preservation Act.

As Community Preservation Committee Chairman John DeCosta explained, $100,000 would come from the CPC's budgeted reserve and the balance would be paid via bonds also from this account, not the general operating budget of the town.

Saunders thought that by passing the article, the town would be giving the YMCA – the current owners of the property – a donation. Schneider called it a “want” not a necessity, noting that the town already had hundreds of acres in open space and recreation and questioning, “Do we need this?”

Gagne said the acquisition was in line with the town's open space master plan to conserve land north of Route 6 and that it was contiguous to the railroad easement, the Phase 2 bike path location.

Selectman Jordan Collyer said, “It's a tremendous opportunity,” and called the large parcel a place where ball fields and other recreational activities could take place along with a senior center at some point in the future.

For the article to carry, a 2/3 vote was required. It was a close call, but the hand count proved the appetite was there: 70 for the purchase, 25 opposed.

The voters also agreed to purchase land in the Mattapoisett River Valley near fresh water sources and wells, Article 23, part of the Tinkham family property off Acushnet Road for the town's share of $65,000. The balance of the funds will come from matching sums from Fairhaven and Marion, and a variety of grants.

Voters also agreed to purchase land adjacent to the police station on Route 6 and Church Street, Article 25, for $295,000. Long-range plans include using this acquisition for the future home of a new fire station.

In the end, the voters passed all 28 warrant articles and three special town meeting articles.

Selectmen Approve Acting Administrator

Rochester Board of Selectmen

By Andrea Ray

Town Moderator Kirby Gilmore sat on the old wooden benches of the Rochester Town Hall and sighed.

He, along with several other town officials, waited for the appearance of the Rochester Board of Selectmen, who had estimated that their general meeting on May 10 would begin at 7:00 pm. At 7:10 pm, however, there was still no sign of the selectmen.

"I thought they opened the general meeting, then started the executive session," Gilmore wondered. When he was told that yes, that is in fact how everyone else runs a selectman meeting, he laughed.

Around 7:15 pm, Chairman Naida Parker and Selectmen Bradford Morse and Richard Nunes arrived, interrupting a meeting of the Finance Committee who had commandeered the Town Hall's meeting room while the selectmen were absent.

Parker quickly called the meeting to order, after shooing the other committee out. There were very few items on the agenda, and most of the selectmen were hoping for a quick run-through. They unanimously approved the minutes of the last meeting and flammable fluid permits to several town residents and local businesses such as Murphy's Auto and the Rochester Golf Course.

Morse noted that David Watling had taken over the position as Veteran's Grave Supervisor from David Helms, and this change was also unanimously approved.

Parker provided a brief update on the Future Generation Wind Farm in Rochester.

"We have some updates, but they aren't ready for launch yet. They won't be put online yet," she said.

The only remaining business involved the town administrator position recently vacated by Michael McCue.

"I'd like to make a motion to appoint attorney Blair Bailey as acting town administrator while we search for a new appointee," Morse announced. This motion was unanimously approved without question.

Morse cheerfully called for adjournment of the

Solar Farm Screening 'Not Good Enough'

Rochester Planning Board

By Jean Perry

Sick. Scrawny. Inadequate. These are some of the adjectives that members of the Rochester Planning Board used on May 10 to describe "the trees with teeny tiny sticks on top" selected by Clean Energy Collective and its contractor, Gehrlicher Solar, for the screening around the solar farm project off Perry's Lane.

Solar developer Jay Myrto and contractor Peter Fickeisen argued that the trees were in full compliance with the landscaping plan the board approved, and the board did not disagree. However, looking at photographs of the site, the trees are ineffective at screening the panels from anyone viewing the site from Mary's Pond.

Johnson said the trees looked no higher than 4 feet tall from far away, and the plan called for 6-footers to screen the site and render the solar farm project invisible from the outside.

"It's full for the first four feet, but after that it's just a spike," said Johnson. "I can see space in between there. We are not to see it from Day One. That's going to take five years to fill in."

Although the board approved 6-foot trees, Johnson said, these trees just aren't going to do.

According to Fickeisen, the trees actually appear to be 8 feet tall if you consider the 2-foot berm they sit atop, but Johnson said it still does not meet the criteria for screening.

"Is there a bird watching society that's causing a greater problem?" said Fickeisen – a private joke, he said, which nobody got.

Johnson recommended staggering the trees and adding an additional row in front, and board member Ben Bailey took offense to Fickeisen's comment suggesting the board might be acting unreasonable.

"If you think we're being unreasonable then you're at odds with everything that this board has been about," said Bailey. "Nobody envisioned a tree like that," he said, balancing his pen on the lid of his coffee cup, "this little stick waving in the wind that doesn't provide much screening."

"We just don't want to see it," said Planning Board member Chris Silveira.

Myrto asked for more time to consider the board's request to revisit the plan and resubmit a new one with different or more trees planned, since he had only been notified of the problem that afternoon.

"We need to have a plan so that we can all weigh in on it so that you're not doing it again and again," said

PARCC Exam Progresses Smoothly

Marion School Committee

By Jean Perry

So far so good, said school administrators at Sippican School after the school's first week of PARCC testing for fifth-graders, who completed the ELA portion of the exam last week.

This being the second time Sippican students have performed the online standardized test that replaced the old MCAS, technical glitches this time around were fewer than before, with only a couple of minor incidents with students getting kicked offline, according to Principal Lyn Rivet.

Rivet told the Marion School Committee on May 4 that the students this time were "kind of relaxed about it," having been exposed last year to the new format of the test. Students took the exam on the school's Chromebooks, utilizing a mouse and headphones.

"I know that [Assistant Principal Sarah Goerges] and I felt better about the rollout and the training ... and we knew where to find the manuals online," said Rivet.

Celebrating over 100 years in the landscaping business!

"Overall, everybody's feeling better about the test."

Superintendent Doug White commented that he learned, during conversations with other school districts that decided to stick with the MCAS until the state instituted its next generation standardized test, those administrations wished they had moved to taking the PARCC online or at least the written version of PARCC.

"The questions are much different that what [students] have been exposed to in the past," said White, "so I think that having our children be in a position where we have been involved in this process is only going to help as we go to MCAS 2.0."

In other matters, Facilities Director Gene Jones had the results of the state-conducted air quality test at Sippican School from March, but the committee forewent discussing the results until they had more time to review them.

School Business Administrator Patrick Spencer said a representative from the state would address the committee personally during its June School Committee meeting; however, some recommendations on the report are already being implemented within the building.

Jones said results showed a few minor structural problems, which are relatively easy to fix. He hinted at some 28 issues mentioned in the report and coming up with a plan of action to measure milestones towards addressing those 28 issues.

"I was like, wow," said Chairman Christine policy on recess – how much and how often.

As long as the temperature doesn't dip below 20 degrees with the wind chill factor, recess is held outside, he said. But come snow, rain, or shine, all students participate in at least 20 minutes of recess daily, whether it is indoors or outdoors.

The school focuses on the importance of movement and provides students with opportunities to engage in sports and activities such as four square and ball.

When recess is held indoors during inclement weather, there is sometimes less movement; however, teachers strive to make the most of it for the kids.

"We utilize the gym, which is nice," said Medeiros. In classrooms, sometimes teachers coordinate movement activities and games to get students up and out of their seats. Other times, students will head to the library or the art room or music room to practice their instruments in the free time given. "We love the kids to be outside and get that fresh air," Medeiros said. "There's a lot of things that go on. For us, it's a mandatory thing for us to make sure that it's at least 20 minutes long."

"Twenty minutes doesn't seem like a very long time," said School Committee member Robin Rounseville.

Medeiros said students do get other short breaks throughout the day that incorporate physical movement as part of the school's responsive classroom policy. During these movement breaks, Medeiros said sometimes interactive cartoon games from websites might be projected onto a screen for kids to follow.

"It can be anything from calisthenics to a dance routine ... you might see on a daily basis," said Medeiros. School administration received instruction on incorporating movement into the day during training sessions over the summer, Medeiros told the committee. "You'll see teachers actually taking these breaks outside. There's a lot of interaction with learning outside."

Other outdoor activities include educational trips to the wetlands behind the school and a garden where students can weed, water, and help grow vegetables.

"So there's a lot of movement at RMS," said Medeiros. "We're not a stand and deliver type of school."

School Committee member Meagan Bennett expressed concern over the practice of taking recess away for a child as disciplinary punishment and requested, "If at some time we could have that discussion, because I have very strong feelings around that."

Medeiros said the staff usually tries to find other ways to address disciplinary consequences, such as after school time or visiting the office.

"These kids need a break," said Medeiros. "That's not an appropriate consequence for something that goes on in the classroom." However, he added, "That's been a traditional consequence.... Tradition is oftentimes tough to break."

Chairman Tina Rood said, "We have a very small

In other matters, the school conducted an air quality assessment, with results showing that the quality of the air at Rochester Memorial School is within the normal range or even better. According to Medeiros, the writer of the report stated, "I have not seen a better quality result ever."

The next meeting of the Rochester School Committee is scheduled for June 2 at 6:30 pm at Rochester Memorial School.

ORR Inducts 54 New Members Into NHS

ORR Update

By Sienna Wurl

On Tuesday, May 3, the National Honor Society (NHS) held its annual induction ceremony at Old Rochester Regional, where 54 new members were inducted into the NHS.

The ceremony was named in the memory of Dana Dourdeville, an Old Rochester alumnus who graduated in 2011 and began college at Brown University. He passed away in 2013, and the ceremony was held in his honor because he embodied the ideals of the National Honor Society.

The ceremony began when the inductees walked in and took their seats, with a piano accompaniment from fellow inductee, Maxxon Wolski. After taking their seats, NHS president Michaelah Nunes welcomed the inductees and their supportive friends and families in the audience.

In a short speech, Nunes highlighted what it means to be a part of the NHS, and then handed the mic off to Principal Michael Devoll, who sent well wishes and good luck to the up-and-coming NHS members.

Once Devoll's congratulatory speech had come to a conclusion, guest speaker Dr. Erich Carroll, a history teacher at Old Rochester, was invited to the podium. His speech focused around the perseverance required to be successful.

The next part of the ceremony was the recognition of the National Honor Society qualities, with each quality being represented by a candle. Five current members of the NHS were invited to light each one of the five candles: Knowledge, Scholarship, Service, Leadership, and Character.

Traditionally, the Old Rochester chapter of the NHS invites one current member to perform at the ceremony. This year, Isabella King sang a cover of the song "Youth" by Daughter.

After the song had come to a close, the inductees raised their right hands to repeat the oath of the National Honor Society, which was followed by the procession of each individual inductee standing up to receive their pin and a lit candle.

After each member was successfully inducted, NHS president Nunes said a closing statement, and friends and families lingered for refreshments and photographs.

How were the future members of the National Honor Society selected? It was required for them to reach a certain academic criteria, and if achieved, letters were sent out to invite possible inductees to apply to the NHS. The application process included detailing experience with community service, and getting signatures from teachers, community members, and Vice Principal Michael Parker to attest to the character of the possible inductees. The applications were then sent to a board that reviewed the applications, looking to ensure the students selected proved "...that they are strong leaders, are of good character, and that they have either a service oriented background and if not, that they are interested in getting involved in service programs," explained NHS

For the inductees, community service means a lot. As Diana LaRock said, "Community Service allows you to better your community while learning the value of hard work and selflessness."

But it's about more than just working hard towards a better self.

"Community service is a way for you to say thank you to the community you live in for everything it gives you, like a place to live, and a good school," said inductee Erin Costa. "We take for granted little things like these, so community service is a great way to tell your community that you acknowledge all the good things you get from them."

Allie Nicolosi, whose main platform of community service is through Faith Formation (catechist) at Saint Anthony's Parish in Mattapoisett, explained that for her, it is important to make the children in Faith Formation learn the importance of service to the community through scripture.

"When I look at my busy schedule, I ask myself why I bother spending my free time teaching the kids," said Nicolosi. "My main reason for helping is because I can honestly say that I rarely enjoyed the hour a week of sitting and reading scripture and then having a quiz on the information learned. As a teacher, I've realized that I have the opportunity to make the class less of a nuisance, and hope to help the kids realize the importance of reading and understanding the scriptures of the Bible.”

Once inducted, the members of the NHS are required to perform a minimum of 20 hours of community service each semester, and many go above and beyond that minimum. Although individual service is an important part of the NHS, the Society has put on many fundraisers this year, including a Thanksgiving Food Drive, a Sock Drive for veterans in Southeastern Massachusetts, and a Coin Drive for Lymphoma.

Many members of the NHS form small volunteer groups and perform service together, including a group that tutors math at ORRJHS after school and another that reads to students in the Tri-Town elementary schools.

Conan Leary Chosen as New Athletic Director

Tabor Academy News

By Madeleine Gregory

The end of the school year marks many goodbyes, including the loss of Mr. Muther, Tabor's director of athletics.

Dick Muther's choice to leave Tabor after living and working here since 1984 is no doubt a sad one, but the future of Tabor athletics remains secure in the capable hands of Conan Leary.

Numerous candidates were up for the position, but Leary's numerous years as a coach, teacher, and previous student-athlete at Tabor, spoke for themselves.

In both 2010 and 2015, Leary was awarded the Matthew Houlihan '99 Faculty Prize by the student body for his contributions. For his efforts as a coach, The National Wrestling Hall of Fame chose him as 2015's Massachusetts Coach of the Year. In 2014, he was the New England Independent School Wrestling Association Coach of the Year.

These acknowledgements are all in addition to his incredible personal performance as a wrestler and football player, both as a student at Tabor and at Williams College, where he won numerous championships and titles.

Leary admits that he initially felt drawn to the position because of his experience as a student-athlete at Tabor. His Tabor career as a wrestler is especially distinctive. He won two Class A titles in addition to two New England titles. During his senior year, he ended an undefeated season by becoming a National Champion.

His contribution to Tabor cannot be summed up in a list of awards and titles, however. His true impact can be seen in his love for the school, his students, and the athletes that he coaches. He has built strong bonds with many athletes as a coach on both the football and wrestling teams. Perhaps the greatest testament to his strength as a coach is the way his team talks about him.

"He's the kind of coach you don't want to disappoint," says senior Thomas Kelly, who has wrestled since freshman year. "Not because he'll yell or anything, but just because he makes you want to be your best."

Leary's wrestlers have also won numerous awards and improved greatly under his leadership. More than that, they've developed a strong sense of sportsmanship, and work constantly to improve, not only themselves, but each other.

"I can't wait to see how Tabor will continue to grow and develop in the future," says Mr. Muther. His legacy of advocating for sportsmanship, competitiveness, and hard work will continue with Conan Leary, whose personal and professional history emanate the same drive for excellence.

Bulldog Athletes Rained Off the Field

ORR Sports Update

By Patrick Briand

The big story of the week was the 19 canceled sporting events that likely contributed to infinite headaches for many student-athletes, coaches, and most notably, Athletic Director Bill Tilden. Despite the damp atmosphere, some teams got in their games, including boys' lacrosse, which defeated Fairhaven; girls' lacrosse, which notched 37 goals across three big wins; and the track teams, which yielded great results from two invitational meets on Saturday.

Baseball: The Bulldogs' game against Bourne, originally scheduled for Monday, was moved back three times and will now be played on Wednesday, May 25. The boys were then supposed to play on Wednesday at home versus Fairhaven. However, rain postponed that game

Animal Advice

Jay Gould, DVM

My parrot only likes the sunflower seeds in her seed mix. How can I get her to eat the other seeds.

I would compare an all seed diet to an all white bread diet. That would be okay in the short run, but severely deficient over time. Seeds lack vitamin A and a number of essential oils that are necessary to keep your bird healthy.

What should I feed my parrot?

Feed pelleted bird food. It looks like dry dog or cat food but much smaller, and its formulated for birds. To this add fresh fruits and vegetables. Offer the seeds for 10 minutes in the morning and 10 minutes in the evening and leave the pellets, fruits and veggies available for the rest of the day.

Junior Sam Henrie (3-0) struck out seven and gave up just one hit over four innings, while providing three hits on offense in a huge 16-2 victory. The team had 24 hits overall, including four from junior Will Hopkins, who had nine total bases on the day. Seniors Hunter Parker and Jacob Fluegel had three hits each while junior catcher John Breault recorded four in the blowout. On Saturday, the boys' home face-off with Bourne was cancelled and pushed back to Tuesday, May 17. This week, the Bulldogs will be away at non-conference Barnstable High on Tuesday, home against D-R on Friday, and away at non-conference Coyle-Cassidy in a rescheduled game on Saturday.

Softball: The Lady Bulldogs first game this week was supposed to be home against Bourne on Monday, but it was postponed to Monday, May 9, due to rain. The Lady Bulldogs were also rained out against Fairhaven at Hastings Middle School on Wednesday, and the game was postponed indefinitely. On Friday, the girls were back home to play the Seekonk Lady Warriors, but unfortunately lost 8-0. The team will make up their game against Bourne on Monday before resuming against non-conference Diman Voc. at home on Thursday. They will then travel to play Dighton-Rehoboth on Friday afternoon.

They wound up losing 11-10 in a close battle that will have major SCC repercussions; if they win the rest of their conference games, they will likely share the conference title with Bourne. Three players had offensive outbursts to provide the 'Dogs with all 10 of their goals: junior Landon Gougen and sophomore Pat Kiernan scored three apiece, while junior Charlie Tirrell had a huge game, scoring four and assisting on two other goals. The team was down 10-7 with six minutes remaining and almost closed the gap enough to win with a late surge. On Friday, the boys faced off with the Fairhaven Blue Devils on the road. Gougen gave the team exactly what they needed, scoring a game-winning goal in OT to seal a 9-8 victory. Kiernan had three goals, while Tirrell,

To the Editor:

The ongoing road and sidewalk work in the Village is looking great and we hope everyone appreciates the hard work of the Highway Department to make it happen. Planning for improvements began many years ago and addresses the condition of existing sidewalks. But what about better conditions for walkers and riders in all of our neighborhoods? The Municipal Bicycle and Pedestrian Plan that will be considered at the upcoming May 24 Selectmen's meeting outlines a variety of ways that residents and the Town can improve conditions in their neighborhoods. Please take a look at the plan, which is on the Town website, and send comments to the Town Administrator.

Safety starts with everyone on the roads sharing them well. It won't cost drivers anything to slow down and watch for bikers and walkers. It won't cost bike riders and walkers anything to follow the rules of the road. The plan identifies improvements that do come with a price tag: It calls for pedestrian-activated crosswalks on Route 6 and for the business community to give input for improvements in the business district before MassDOT finalizes its plans for Route 6 upgrades. And, of course, it calls for a timely and prioritized completion of the bike path and upgraded design of the intersection of the bike path with roads. Please get involved in your neighborhood to make our streets better for everyone. You can get started now: there's a place on the police department website for residents to note the where and when of speeders on your street.

Obituaries:

Hamish C.F. Gravem died suddenly at the age of 82 after a brief illness. He was born on January 19th, 1934 and raised in Orleans, Cape Cod and was a graduate of Phillips Exeter Academy class of 1952 and Harvard University class of 1956. He was a successful banker and an accomplished tennis player who played in many venues including Wimbledon. He was intelligent, funny, loveable and most of all generous. There wouldn't be a Christmas without him paying off someone's lay away, or going to his local pharmacy and insisting on paying for the cute old lady in front of him. He had a passion for animals, especially his beloved dog Money Penny and his birds. His back yard is a bird's paradise.

He truly showed on almost a daily basis what it is to love. He married his soul mate, Jorunn H. Gravem on March 26, 1966 and they just recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in the Caribbean. She was his world, his rock, his smile. They exemplified what a marriage should be.

Hamish has 3 children, Hamish Ziegler and spouse Carolyn, Kirsten B.G. Kadra and spouse Tom Cotter and Craig F.B. Gravem and fiancée Bonnie Coy. He has four grandchildren, Beagan Sterckx-Ziegler, Zoe Sterckx-Gravem, Madison B. Kadra and Hunter N.B. Kadra. He adored them, and was always challenging them with a spelling test for a few bucks. His sense of humor was unstoppable, his stubbornness challenged, but his generosity knew no bounds.

He was the son of the late Axel Berg Gravem and Joyce Buchannan Gravem, brother of Nancy Phillips and the late Pamela Chisholm.

He will always be remembered for his love of peanut butter, bacon and butter sandwiches, his silk and cashmere scarves, and the ability to make people happy.

A celebration of his amazing and wonderful life will be held this summer.

In lieu of flowers and in memory of him, please pay it forward.

MOVIE REVIEW

Endless Lust

By Rob Gonsalves
www.robsmovievault.com

Accidental Incest.* Starring Johnny Sederquist and Elyssa Baldassari. Directed by Richard Griffin. Running time: 101 minutes. Now available on DVD or VOD.

In the affably filthy sex farce Accidental Incest, the title tells the tale: the libertine couple Milton (Johnny Sederquist) and Kendra (Elyssa Baldassari) both feel like soulmates to each other, but that's just because they're technically brother and sister — the separately sired results of their mutual father's sperm-bank donation. They discover this about a third of the way into the film, and then the plot deals with the consequences, going deeper and darker though no less outrageous. Providence director Richard Griffin, working with a script by Lenny Schwartz based on Schwartz's play, takes this taboo and good-naturedly manhandles it into service as the premise of a romantic comedy. This, heaven help us, is the ever-transgressive Griffin and Schwartz's version of a Hollywood meet-cute.

Filmed mostly in microbudget-artsy black and white, Accidental Incest could be described as a boxing match between Kevin Smith and John Waters, with Waters handily winning and then going off to make out with Andy Milligan in a bathroom. The movie has the raffish sexual candor of Smith's best early comedies, the prankish perversity of Waters, and the all-encompassing hostility of Milligan. Griffin keeps things jumping visually, especially in the sex scenes, edited and rhythmized for comedy rather than eroticism (which, contrasted with the usual po-faced treatment of carnality in American film, just serves to make the festivities more erotic).

The movie signals its stage origins by having the lead characters address us directly, a useful way to cut to the chase. Milton and Kendra have been leaving relationship wreckage everywhere they go, and it becomes clear that the reason is that they hadn't met the right person yet — i.e., each other. Sederquist, a manic Griffin Dunne lookalike, and Baldassari, whose smile has a hint of Anne Hathaway innocence, dive into the deep end of sin and hysteria and passion, with Griffin's eager encouragement. Because these characters start out so scummy and irredeemable, we paradoxically believe that much more in their redemption via taboo.

Griffin's roots are in disreputable genres — horror, sci-fi — and he and Schwartz throw in some fantasy here; there are angels and a hipster God (Aaron Andrade) who performs a rap. Accidental Incest is partly a musical, and there are some comically bitter or obscene songs here, though not enough to dominate the narrative. They're essentially what Roger Ebert used to call semi-OLIs — semi-obligatory lyrical interludes; they're smoothly performed and a welcome way of changing up the tone. The cast is fiercely game, and I confess I laughed hardest at Jamie Dufault's near-psychotically closeted Alex (Kendra's ex) and Josh Fontaine (whose comic timing is flawless) as the gimp-like Adam. Many of the actors are Griffin mainstays, and once again he brings in Michael Thurber, who photographs so beautifully, especially in black and white, and emotes so dead-on satirically that if John Waters ever makes another film he should look to Rhode Island.

If the title Accidental Incest puts you off, truthfully Griffin and Schwartz don't do much to win you over. It's as cracked as it sounds. Those who respond to the title with an amused, curious attitude of "Oh, this I gotta see" are probably better-prepared for the party. It's more sex-positive and less hung-up than the other incest comedy you may have heard of, David O. Russell's debut Spanking the Monkey. And if it sounds like your cup of iniquity, it could use your help: the movie's DVD distributor has been gun-shy about it due to its title — and it's not something you'll find in a Redbox in any event — so if you'd like to support Griffin and his brand of happy degeneracy, your best bet is video on demand or amazon.com.

students and has been an effective ambassador for her peers with constituencies in the city and beyond.

As a first-year student, Pierce quickly involved herself in student government, serving for four years including service as class president, treasurer, student trustee and ultimately president of the student body.

Honorees at the 29 Who Shine ceremony were allowed to invite a faculty or staff mentor who has been pivotal in their collegiate experience. Pierce selected President Emeritus Robert V. Antonucci as her mentor.

"Dr. Antonucci is the epitome of everything I hope to become one day: intelligent, charismatic, a team player, and a visionary," Pierce said. "Throughout his life, he's used all these characteristics to help others. Having him as someone to look up to played a monumental role in my current and future success."

In her interdisciplinary studies with a focus on political science, Pierce endeavored to bring the lessons of the classroom into practice. On campus, that translated into service on the university's student leadership initiatives and as an orientation leader for incoming students. She also volunteered her time and energy with the Alternative Spring Break program working for Habitat for Humanity.

Beyond the campus, Pierce applied her skills with internships in the state's Executive Office of Education and U.S. Senator Edward Markey's office. In her final semester on campus, she interned in the office of

SALOME'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You're the first sign in the Zodiac and like to take the lead wherever you go. But this time, you'd be wise to follow someone who has much to teach you.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Your adversary hasn't given up trying to undermine you. Continue to stay cool -- someone in authority knows what's happening.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Spring brings a positive aspect for relationships. Paired Twins grow closer, while the single set finds new romance -- perhaps with a Leo or Libra.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Wavering aspects this week mean weighing your words carefully to avoid misunderstandings.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You could soon be on a new career path in pursuit of those long-standing goals, but don't cut any current ties until you're sure you're ready to make the change.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A former colleague wants to re-establish an old professional connection. It would be wise to make the contact, at least until you know what he or she is planning.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A relationship that survived some rocky moments could be facing a new challenge. Deal with the problem openly, honestly and without delay. Good luck.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A recent and much-appreciated change in the workplace inspires you to make some changes in your personal life as well. Start with a plan to travel more.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A friend needs your kind and caring advice, but you need to know what he or she is hiding from you before you agree to get involved.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Your circle of friends continues to widen. Expect to hear from someone in your past who hopes to re-establish your once-close relationship.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Your aspects favor the arts. Indulge in whatever artistic expression you enjoy most. A workplace situation will, I'm pleased to say, continue to improve.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Warning! Your tendency to let things slide until the last minute could have a negative effect on a relationship that you hope can develop into something meaningful.

BORN THIS WEEK: You are both emotional and sensible. You enjoy being with people. Good career choices include teaching, performing and the clergy.

it is sure to be a great show yet again this year.

On the music front, Tabor student musicians have several recitals you won't want to miss. The Music Students' Recital is on Thursday, May 12 in Lyndon South Auditorium at 6:30 pm (inside the Stroud Academic Center at 232 Front Street). These students are part of Tabor's private music instruction program where 13 private music teachers come to campus to teach students on most string, woodwind, brass and percussion instruments as well as piano and voice. It is always fantastic to hear the music students and to mark their growth year to year. There is a healthy range from a first time performer to more experienced musicians, and this recital is full of wonderful music as well as spirited, youthful enthusiasm.

As the month matures, the Chamber Music Recital will keep your toes tapping with Tabor's a cappella groups on Monday, May 16 in Lyndon South Auditorium at 6:30 pm, and finally, the Madrigal Singers will perform their last concert on Friday, May 20 at 7:00 pm in Wickenden Chapel.

Tabor students and faculty invite you to come out and enjoy the artists this spring!

Calling All Animal-loving Artists

Your creativity can help animals in need! Art On Center is teaming up with the Humane Society & Shelter, South Coast to present an art exhibition and fundraiser to benefit the Humane Society. There are two ways to participate, and artists may choose either or both. Artists are invited to pick up a complimentary 8x8-inch canvas at Art On Center to create a work of art which will be displayed as a "mosaic wall of art," says Art On Center's director Stacey Frates. There is no entry fee for this option, and the proceeds from all sales of these little 8x8-inch jewels will be donated to the Humane Society.

Another way for artists to participate is to enter an artwork (of any size and medium) for an entry fee of $15 and subject to Art On Center's 30% commission on sales; the artists may then elect to donate a portion of their sales to the Humane Society. The deadline for entries, which must be delivered to Art On Center, 15 Center Street, Fairhaven, MA, is 6:00 pm on Wednesday, June 1.

The opening reception is on Saturday, June 4 from 1:00 - 4:00 pm and the public is invited. There is ample free parking and the building is wheelchair accessible. The exhibition will run through the month of June, during which time pet food and supplies will also be collected for the Humane Society.

Both Art On Center and the Humane Society & Shelter, South Coast are 501(c)(3) nonprofit organizations. For more information, please call 774-206-1709 or email info@artoncenter.org.

I am looking for a small to medium sized house that is in poor to very poor condition, but not a teardown

I want to learn how to rebuild a house through personal experience as well as fund my college. I can only purchase a single house now. If you sell to me, I will pay cash and quickly if you wish or take more time if you prefer that. My offer will depend on the extent of the repairs it needs. I may be able to help you and you may be able to help me. All Quiet On The Western Front

All Quiet On The Western Front will be shown on Friday, May 13 at 7:00 pm at the Marion Music Hall. Just three years after the first "talkie" movie was made – The Jazz Singer in 1927 – the very important movie All Quiet On The Western Front was filmed in 1930 and is one of the most powerful films ever made. Young school boys are encouraged to join the battle underway at the start of World War I. They search for glory and honor, but instead find the horrors of combat and man's inhumanity to man. All Quiet On The Western Front is not for the faint hearted. David Pierce will offer brief comments at the conclusion of the movie. This film is part of the Classic Movie series sponsored by the Sippican Historical Society and the Marion Council of Aging. There is no charge to see the film. Donations are gratefully accepted. Free popcorn.

an Electronics and Household Appliance Recycling Day on Saturday, May 14. The event will be held next to the Bowlmor Bowling Alley, 22 County Road, Route 6, Mattapoisett between 9:00 am and 3:00 pm.

This event presents a great opportunity to clear out all that unwanted clutter that's accumulated over the years in and around the house or office. All are encouraged to sort through their basements, attics, offices, and garages for any electronic or electric devices, and any household appliances (large and small) just collecting dust and no longer needed. Bring them to the event and for a nominal fee have them recycled and disposed of once and for all! Pick-ups considered for seniors and disabled citizens.

Members of the Rochester Land Trust have been hard at work this winter with their partners from the Mattapoisett Land Trust. After MLT made RLT co-owners of the 80 acre property opposite 199 New Bedford Road, a great deal of work has been done. A kiosk and parking area have been installed, a total of 1½ miles of trails have been opened to make a circular walk with spurs to a holly grove and a view to the river, and an agreement with the Rochester Conservation Commission was made to extend the trails onto their previously landlocked property.

Now both RLT and MLT would like to invite the public to view this improved property. The gift of Edith and Eliot Shoolman back in 1984 for the enjoyment of the beautiful woods, a place to listen for birds and walk in nature, can now be appreciated to its fullest. Join us for an introductory walk on Sunday, May15, at 11:00 am to see

Marion Garden Group Plant Sale

The Marion Garden Group Plant Sale will be held on Saturday, May 14 from 9:00 am to 12:00 noon, with a rain date of Sunday, May 15 (same time) at Bicentennial Park on the corner of Main Street and Spring Street

Members of the Marion Garden Group have been digging, dividing, and donating. As a result, hundreds of plants from gardens all over Marion will be offered for sale next weekend at the first annual Diggings and Donations Plant Sale. You'll want to arrive early for the best selection of hostas, black-eyed Susans, herbs, groundcovers (including pink lilies of the valley and pachysandra), dogwood, daylilies, clematis, lilac, iris, salvia, sedum, succulents, and much more. Some of the specimens have been nurtured in Marion gardens for decades. Special features at the sale are 100-year-old orange daylilies. In addition to mature varieties of perennials, there will also be seedlings, cut flowers, handmade bird and garden crafts, and houseplants for sale.

Brought to you by the Marion Garden Group, all proceeds will benefit village beautification projects. The Garden Group also sponsors the Holiday Greens Boutique held every December at the Music Hall in conjunction with the Marion Holiday House Tour.

Members have been digging and dividing their gardens and nurturing plants in a greenhouse in order to bring you this special one-day event.

The Garden Group is made up of 60 active and 30 affiliate members with an interest in gardening and the betterment of Marion. Members plant window boxes in the village four times each year with ongoing maintenance that includes watering and deadheading. They volunteer at two area nursing homes conducting monthly flower arranging classes, and they make and distribute holiday wreaths for businesses and residents of the town. This year, the group has made generous donations to the Sippican School Greenhouse, the Sippican Lands Trust, and to Pollinator Corridor, Best Bees Beehive, Seed Giveaway, and Grow Native Massachusetts. For more information, visit their website www/mariongardengroup.org.
